

I am the Project Superintendent for a company called Hy-Vee Weitz Construction which does all of the construction services for the Hy-Vee Food Store.

I have also been building new stores for Hy-Vee for the last 15 years and have gotten to know what types of materials & typical quantities that need to be hauled away on most projects. The new LEED store built in Madison, Wisconsin was a new challenge for me as it would be with the Waste Disposal Company that we chose to bring on board with us. Prior to contracting with a Waste Disposal Company, I always asked the question on what type of response time do they provide. That is definitely the first question since most companies around the Midwest don't have a very good track record on a same day service. I was actually blown away when Pellitteri's had same day service..... not only for one container but for several containers. The communications Pellitteri made with me was outstanding as well. We at Hy-Vee Weitz look for top notch companies like Pellitteri to create an ongoing alliance with, and look forward in working with them on the next project.

Thanks
